BASEBALL NINE SHAPING WELL FOR OPENING GAME

Squad Cut to 25; Have Two Weeks to Prepare For Clarkson.

The basball squad although handicapped by indoor workouts, is rounding into good shape for their first game April 27, which will be with Clarkson, at Potsdam, N. Y. The team has not been able to hold outdoor practices until this week and could do little in the way of real work, except bunting and fielding ground balls. The hurlers, however, were able to get in some good practices.

Coach Klevenow announced another cut of the squad, this time of the infielders and outfielders. The candidates now number twenty-five men. This number will be cut still smaller later in the season. As most of last years squad is back this year, only a few new men could be retained.

The outfielders will be picked from John March '29, Paul Anderson '29, Wilson Hasseltine '29, George Foote '31, Walter Gollnick '28, and Cecil Fowlston '30.

The infielders retained are: Stillman Kelly '29, Carl Sorenson '29, Harold Collins '28, Raymond Franzoni '30, John McDonald '30, Raymond Livingston '29, Warren Jacobs '30, Forrest Spooner '29, Richard Humeston '30, and Roland Casey '30.

The pitching staff are: pitchers, Captain Harold Whittemore, '28, Arthur Hingston '29, Fred Bossert '29, Carlton Simmons '28, Robert Cook '30 and Floyd Rovegno '31; catchers, Albert Willis '29, Gordon Douglas '29, Warren Jacobs '30, and Harold Perry '31.

The seniors who attend the conference will be given an opportunity to visit several business and industrial establishments and will be entertained during the confrence at the University Club.

Scholarships for Students of Religion

The Boston University School of Religious Education and Social Service has recently received a gift of $25,000 with which to establish scholarships for college graduates who wish to enter the fields of religious education and social service. This fund provides five scholarships at $250 each, which will be available to college seniors or unquestioned Christian character who rank academically in the upper one-fourth of the senior class and to college graduates who, as seniors, had this academic ranking.

TRACKSTERS SHOW WELL IN TRIALS

Team Has Two Weeks To Condition For First Meet.

In the preliminary track trials, held by Coach Brown just before the spring recess, the squad promises to produce men capable of winning another State Championship. Most of the men responsible for the team's sucess last year will compete again this year.

Captain Arnold, "Speed" Butler, and "Bill" Donald who did the distance runs last year, are showing up well in the early trials. Warren Witt '29, who ran the mile two years ago, will be with the squad again this year. Among the Freshmen, Gerald Thayer is showing up particularly well, placing second in the mile and fourth in the two mile trials.

In the weight events, Guarnaccia and Schmidt are doing the best. George Hinman '28, Carle Bagley '30, John Williams '29, and Raymond Tomlinson '29 will do the pole vaulting this spring. This trial was held indoors and they all cleared about the same height. Richard Paul, a freshman vaulter, has not been able to compete in the first trials because of an injury, but will be available when outdoor work begins.

The squad has less than three weeks to get into shape for the first meet, which will be with Northeastern University at Boston.

The results of the trials held to date are: (Only the first four in each event are named) 1 mile run, Donald, Thayer, Butler, Witt; 2 mile run, Donald, Butler, Arnold, G. Thayer; Pole vault, Hinman, Bagley, Williams, Tomlinson; Discus throw, Guarnaccia, Schmidt, C. P. Young, and S. Wright; Shotput, Guarnaccia Schmidt, M. Johnson and McLeod.

NOTED PIANIST WILL GIVE FREE RECITAL

Miss Laura Huxtable Porter of Boston will present a piano recital to-night at Mead Memorial Chapel. Students and all who wish to attend are cordially invited, no admission will be charged. Seats will be assigned in the order of arrival. The program is under the auspices of the Music Department of the college.

Laura Huxtable Porter is a well known musician of Boston. She is the wife of F. Addison Portor, the noted composer, and has for many years given concerts with distinctive success. She is a pianist of marked ability, and her recital at the Steinway Hall this winter was enthusiastically reviewed by the critics. In addition to her pianistic gift, Mrs. Porter possesses a rare talent for dramatic reading. Her entertainments are called "Evenings of Word and Song." Mrs. Porter has carefully selected a program of poetry and piano music which should be of wide interest. She reads the poem and then tries to select piano music which will embody the mood of the spoken word. She is one of the few entertainers who presents this kind of a program successfully.

It is to be hoped that both the town's people and the college students will take advantage of this opportunity, which is made possible by the generosity of the College authorities.

DEBATERS LOSE 2-1 IN FOUR CONTESTS

Team Receives Audience Decision and Best Speakers Award.

Losing four debates by a two-to-one vote of the judges, the Middlebury Debating team, on their spring trip, met New York University, Albright College, Temple University, Rutgers University, and Massachusetts Agricultural College. At M. A. C. no decision was given.

The team went from Middlebury to New York where the first debate that with N. Y. U., was held in the City Hall. The question was; Resolved: That Capital invested by American citizens in foreign lands should not be protected by the force of arms of the United States." Middlebury upholding the affirmative.

On Monday, March 26th, the team went to Myerstown, Philidelphia, where another defeat was registered on the question Resolved: "That the nomination of state and federal officers by the direct primary system be abolished." Middlebury again had the affirmative.

Temple was the next opponent and, debating the same question as at New York with the same side, Middlebury lost again, but won the audience decision. The contest here was very close and the decision rested on the presentation of an alternate case.

Vol. XXIV. April 11, 1928 No. 23

1928-29

The editorial policy of a college newspaper is likely to be an erratic thing because of its annual change of editors. The Campus is fortunate in having a system which eliminates many of the disadvantages of this. We feel that we owe a large debt to previous editors and in forming our policy for the coming year we have drawn extensively from their experience for a foundation on which to build.

Our policy consisits of five main points which are divided into two classes—those dealing with the presentation of news and those having to do directly with the editorial column. In brief, they are as follows: to apportion space in proportion to the importance of the story; to give athletics better publicity; to arouse a fuller appreciation of Middlebury's other publications; to compare Middlebury with other institutions in an effort to give a real basis for constructive criticism; and to discuss various problems confronting college students.

The Campus, until a year ago was handicapped by lack of space to print, and reporters to cover, all the news that should have been given to its readers. With a six page paper we have been able to give, in some form, practically every bit of essential news. Various phases of college activity have in the past received more than a just share of space to the neglect of others. The Campus has not been wholly at fault, however, and in order to get the news we must have the co-operation of the undergraduates and alumni, at least to the point of suggestion if not to that of actual constructive criticism.

Athletics have suffered particularly in the above respect, largely because the Campus has been unable to secure the services of a good sports writer. Although the paper lacked an editor a sports page was instituted and in the coming months the new athletic editor will be able to give to sports all the space that it deserves. Sports in other colleges and in the professional field will be covered briefly and all local athletics on both sides of the hill will receive full accounts.

The Campus is only a unit in Middlebury's publications but as the most frequent one there is much that we can do to make the work of the other boards more effective. There are necessarily in college publication work many waste motions, many repetitions of mistakes. Some of these may be eliminated by a fuller knowledge of their existence. It isn't that the editors and managers are not aware of their errors. It is because they are powerless to correct them as long as they receive inadequate support from the student body and administration.

It is easy to knock and this may be the reason why the practice is so prevalent but we are inclined to think that ignorance is responsible for a large share of it. By comparing Middlebury with other colleges both favorably and unfavorably the Campus can at least establish a basis for really valuable criticism. There are many ways in which Middlebury can be improved but until we see how other colleges have solved their problems our criticism is apt to take the form of knocking.

Too many students come to college for the realization of a single end; to prepare for a definite career, to take part in athletics, to get more education, or just because some one else wants them to. College consists of more than an opportunity to realize a single aim; there are innumerable opportunities many of which can be taken advantage of to the individual's profit. The man who wishes to be a lawyer will get the preparation whether he goes to college or not. But if he does go to college he should take advantage of the opportunities to prepare himself to meet other situations than those found in the mere management of his profession. The matter can not be fully discussed in an editorial column, it is true, but it should be possible to show that college has much more to give than the students have been getting, all that is necessary being the will on the part of the student to take advantage of the opportunities presented.

Although a single year is too short a time to do all that may be planned we shall be satisfied if the pursuance of the above policy results in as marked an improvement in the paper as has taken place during the past year and if we have as much success as our predecessor in fostering the habit of thinking.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS CHANGED

The following changes in the CAMPUS constitution and by-laws have been voted by the CAMPUS board and approved by the Student Council and Student Government Association:

He may be advisory in matters of editorial policy.

The business manager hall hold the office of ex-officio business manager and shall retain supervisory control until the end of the college year.

The Advertising Manager shall be filled by a junior man only.

The officers of the editorial staff with the exception of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor and Women's Editor and the officers of the business staff with the exception of the Business Manager shall be elected by the editorial staff and the business staff respectively except in case of a tie when the entire board shall vote. DEBATERS LOSE 2-1 IN FOUR CONTESTS

The debate with Rutgers, the next night was held at Hillside High School, at Hillside, New Jersey. This is a part of the program at Rutgers in an attempt to build up interest in debating throughout the high schools in the state. Middlebury again lost by a two to one decision, but gained the award of having the best speaking team. Here the Rutgers team held a decided advantage in that Rutgers had had thirty-three debates in the month of March on this question and consequently the team had had a chance to polish up their arguments.

A debate with Trinity College at Hartford, Conn., had been scheduled for Thursday but this was unexpectedly canceled. On Friday, two man, no-decision debate with M. A. C. was held at Amherst. This was in accordance with the new theory of holding debates in which neither side feels the obligation of working for a decision from the judges.

The men who made the trip were Albert D. Leahy, George R. Hinman, Scott A. Babcock, and Sam W. Pattee.

There are two debates left on the schedule for this year. One with Colby College to be held at Mead Memorial Chapel on the seventeenth of this month, and one with the University of Vermont to be held at Burlington sometime in the month of May

SKILL

THE twist of the wrist, the "throw" of the arm, the shifting of the weight—these are among the many little points which make the skill that you admire in the javelin thrower as he hurls the shaft two hundred feet or more.

As on the track or the football field, in the gymnasium or on the water, so in industry, progress is the result of fine improvements—a thousandth of an inch here—a minute variation in a curve there—slight changes foreseen by engineers and carried out by skilled workmen.

It is this attention to detail that is constantly improving General Electric apparatus and contributing to the electrical industry, which, though still young, is already a dominant force, increasing profit and promoting success in every walk of life.

Whether you find this monogram on an electric refrigerator for the home or on a 200,000-horsepower turbine-generator for a power station, you can be sure that it stands for skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.
